

Frog Bay Tribal National Park & Conservation Management Area

Frog Bay Tribal National Park (FBTNP) is the first tribal national park in the United States! The park was created in 2012, with the addition of the Conservation Management Area (CMA) in 2017. The CMA permanently protects 3,983 feet of Lake Superior shoreline, 118 acres of wetlands and freshwater estuary, and nearly 300 acres of land around Frog Bay. There are several trail options within FBTNP, whether you are looking for a direct route to the beach (.4 mile), a scenic jaunt through boreal forest to the beach (additional .25 mile), or a moderate hike through forested ravines (1 mile). Regardless of which route you take, you will find yourself on a beautiful sand beach with panoramic views of five of the Apostle Islands!

Clayton Creek Trail

The Clayton Creek Trail was constructed in 2017 for the enjoyment of all. Whether you are simply looking to spend some time in nature, or would like to take an alternative route between Legendary Waters Casino and the Health Center, Farm, or Pow Wow Grounds, this trail is a great opportunity to get outside! This 1 mile moderate trail brings hikers through a variety of habitats as it follows Clayton Creek, passing through the old fields and apple trees of the community farm, through stands of hardwoods, boreal forest, and along steep ravines.

Park and Trail Use Guidelines

- Park and trail hours are from sunrise to sunset
- Please practice "leave no trace" principles. Help to preserve this place for future generations.
- Foot traffic only: absolutely no motor vehicles in the park. This includes ATVs. RCCL 23.4.2, minimum fine of $100.
- FBTNP is open to tribal members and the general public alike, but the greater CMA is a core conservation area and, as such, is only open to designated uses by tribal members. If you are not a Red Cliff Tribal Member, use is restricted to the trail system and the beach at Frog Bay.
- Harvest of any natural resources by non-tribal members is prohibited. Tribal members must secure the required permits to harvest.
